Stevenson Peer Theater

Are you a role model for younger students? Do you enjoy performing in short, funny skits? If so, join the Stevenson Peer Theater (SPT). Students write skits, perform them and then facilitate the small groups at Snowflake as well as during Red Ribbon Week at other local middle schools. No experience is necessary and all grades are welcome. With SPT, students can also earn community service hours.

COMMITMENT

Members must attend Snowflake in March at Daniel Wright and April at Aptakistic. Members must also commit to the “No-Use” contract.

Theatre Productions

The Theatre Department offers students the opportunity to apply and hone the acting, technical and ensemble skills they learn in their theatre classes in five co-curricular productions each year beginning in August and running through April. Students must audition for acting roles and apply for production staff as well as technical leadership roles. However, after some basic safety training, all students are welcome to participate in entry-level technical crew roles including: set, lighting, sound, costume/makeup and running crews.

COMMITMENT

Rehearsals and crew calls are every day after school. Each production will have its own schedule, which will be provided to students as the production commences. Students are expected to attend all of their scheduled rehearsals, including technical rehearsals in the weeks leading up to the production, at which time rehearsals will run into the evening.

REQUIREMENTS

Students must be passing five academic classes in order to attend rehearsals, crew calls, and participate in performances.
